

You're invited to share your stories

I'm KIM V. GOLDSMITH, an artist from Dubbo (raised near Coonamble). I'm developing an art project called PULSE OF THE WETLAND, documenting the recovery of the MACQUARIE MARSHES from drought and fire throughout 2020. I'm looking for people with a history or experience associated with the lower Macquarie/ Marshes area to share their stories with me for audio recordings. I'm happy to make your story available to you at the end of the project. A series of video and sound works will be created from my visits to the Marshes, using underwater cameras and microphones, 360-degree cameras, time-lapse videos, along with drone footage and acoustic recordings of the areas. The recorded stories will be 'woven' into the soundtracks to capture what's so special place about the Marshes and community hopes for its future. The works will be presented to local communities in 2021 as well as internationally later in the year.

I'm planning to travel to Warren, Quambone, Coonamble and Gulargambone over 3 days in August 2020 to record the stories - these dates haven't been set. If you're interested and available, please contact me so we can organise a time. NOTE: This project has been 100% self-funded to date.
